

Plant Trees for $1

Zurück zu My Forest - Stop Global Warming

-
-

Diskussionsforum

Themenübersicht

Thema: Plant Trees for $1

Es wird der einzige Beitrag angezeigt.

Beitrag #1

Jake hat geschrieben am 5. Dezember 2009 um 23:40

"Be the change you want to see in the world." Gandhi.

Hello All, my name is Jake Turner and I'm currently a junior at the University of Arizona I'm currently president of Eco-Reps a club on our campus that is helping plant trees through the United Nations Environment Programme Billion Tree Campaign and in turn helping save the world.

The Eco-Reps is a group of students at the University of Arizona that are highly passionate about environmental issues and devoted toward taking action for a greener world and mentality. The Eco-Reps work with Residence Life to focus mainly on sustainability in the residence halls and on campus. Our mission is to educate ourselves and others on the issues of sustainability, use our available resources in order to make the UA a more eco-friendly campus, and of course have fun while we are at it! We have an unofficial website at http://www.life.arizona.edu/recycle/getting_involved.asp.

Under the Plant for the Planet: Billion Tree Campaign, people, communities, organizations, business and industry, civil society and governments are being encouraged to plant trees and enter their tree planting pledges on this web site. The objective is to plant at least one billion trees worldwide each year. We are working through an official sponsor, mokugift. Check out this website describing this relationship <http://www.unep.org/billiontreecampaign/campaignnews/mokugift.asp>. Each tree planted only costs $1!

We ask that you donate at least a dollar to the Billion Tree Campaign either through our site <http://www.mokugift.com/fund/residencelifeeco-reps> or through the main site <http://www.unep.org/billiontreecampaign/>. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for helping save the world.

Facebook.com